Caltech Gets Chandler Gift Of $400,000

The California Institute of Technology has received from the Chandler family of the Los Angeles Times a gift of $400,000 for a dining hall which will be named the Harry Chandler Dining Hall.

Dr. L. A. DuBridge, Caltech president, announced last weekend.

Harry Chandler, publisher of the Times and president of the Times-Mirror Co., was a trustee of Caltech from 1920 until the time of his death in 1944.

The gift is from the Chandler family, the Times-Mirror Co. and the Pfaffinger Foundation. The foundation was named after the late Frank X. Pfaffinger, former treasurer of the Times who left a trust fund for Times employees and charitable organizations.

"The handsome gift is another major step in the current development program," Dr. DuBridge said. "This is the 16th of the 18 buildings to be financed in this campaign."

The dining hall, which will have a main room with a seating capacity of 250 and SWAN LAKE workman puts finishing touches on one of largest floats which will participate in the Rose Parade. Entitled "Swan Lake," the float will be covered by 350,000 flowers—roses to orchid blooms. Flowers will cost $5,000.

Builders Hit Frantic Pace as Parade Nears

Float building crews have started working frantic 12-hour days in preparation for the Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day.

Actually, construction started on the 60 some floats that will appear in the Rose Parade more than two months ago. Designers, mechanics and welders have been working part time to build the chassis and mold the superstructures of the floats that will star in the parade.

During the last 48 hours before the parade start, 3,000 persons will work straight through fastening the 15 million blossoms to the floats that will be seen by 40 million people in person or on TV.

ACCORDING TO Tournament of Roses officials, Rose Parade floats are unique. No other parade in the world features as large and expensive floats.

For example, one of the 1960 parade's largest and most elaborate floats will carry the title of "Swan Lake." It will be in the shape of a huge swan, with a 17-foot-high head and neck and blossom-covered wings sweeping back for 55 feet.

Sponsored by Occidental Life of California, this float will be covered by 350,000 flowers that will range from roses, of course, to $2.50 orchid blooms flown in from Hawaii. All told, the flowers for this one float will cost over $5,000.

RECENT ENTRANTS included the universities and states of Wisconsin and Washington. The universities will have floats patterned after football themes due to the meeting of the two schools in the 48th annual Rose Bowl Game.

The State of Washington will field a floral entry titled four smaller rooms each seating 30 diners, will replace a 60-year-old, overcrowded coffee shop whose small size has forced many students and employees to eat off campus. The new structure will be of contemporary Mediterranean architecture.

The architects are Smith, Powell and Morgridge of Los Angeles. Contractors are Steed Brothers, Alhambra.

Burglars Flee from Vista Circle Home

A pair of burglars were scared from a house in Vista Circle here last Saturday before they had a chance to steal anything, police reported yesterday.

The burglary occurred at the home of William James Putnam, 33 Vista Circle, at about 9 p.m.

While the burglars still were in the house, a guest of Mr. Putnam, Frederick L. Bock, entered. The two would-be thieves escaped by the backdoor and apparently drove off in a car parked nearby.

Police said the house had been ransacked and several paintings had been taken from the bedroom walls and piled on the living room floor. The burglars entered by forcing the back door.

LOCAL POLICE also handled several traffic accidents the past few days, including one which resulted in injuries to a passenger.

The cars driven by Barry S. Cooper, 23 of 122 N. Santa Anita, Arcadia, and Clifford J. Todhouse, 164 Grove, Sierra Madre, collided on Sierra Madre Blvd. as Cooper was making a left turn into the Montrose substation.

Injured was Florence Todhouse, a passenger, who was taken to Sierra Madre Hospital for treatment. She was not seriously hurt.

Caltech Student Freezes to Death At Horseshoe Flat

A 28-year-old Caltech student was found frozen to death Sunday in his parked car in the Horseshoe Flats area of Angeles National Forest.

He was Konrad Walter Huble, a German exchange student, of 155 S. Chester, Pasadena. Huble had been suffering from multiple sclerosis for seven years and had been treating himself with a standard commercial medication, according to Sheriff's Det. Sgt. Walt Thornton of the Montrose substation.

There is a possibility, Thornton said, that Huble accidentally took an overdose of medicine, went into shock, and froze to death. The temperature in the mountain area was 12 degrees.

Forest Opens After Rain

The current rainstorm in Southern California has enabled the U.S. Forest Service to open closed areas in the Angeles National Forest.

Regional Forester Charles A. Connaughton lifted the closure restrictions effective at 8 a.m. on Christmas Day. This action was on recommendation of Angeles Forest Supervisor Sim E. Jarvi. Fire closure restrictions in Southern California's other three National Forests, the Cleveland, San Bernardino and Los Padres, were lifted at the same time.

Forest Supervisor Jarvi cautioned the public, however, that even though the fire danger is now low due to the rain, it could become high again if winds follow soon. He asked that every-

News Is Sold To Ed Herwig, Area Newsman

The Sierra Madre News, published for the past four years by Harry W. Elwood, has been sold to Ed E. Herwig, effective Jan. 1.

Mr. Herwig has moved to Sierra Madre with his family and will assume control of the newspaper the first week of the new year.

A long-time newspaperman, Mr. Herwig was until recently editor of the Anaheim Gazette, a weekly which is owned by the Kuchel family. Prior to that he was an assistant press secretary under Gov. Knight and, earlier, published a newspaper for the Merchants and Manufacturers Association in Los Angeles.

Three Hurt As Car Hits Restaurant

An out-of-control sedan smashed into the side of Pasadena's Seaford Tavern Sunday night, spraying broken glass on diners, and injuring three women in the car.

"It was like a bomb blast right outside our window," That's how Ernie T. Cress of Montebello felt when the car crashed into the wall where the Cress family was eating.

THE DRIVER of the vehicle, Mrs. Frances M. Smith, 59, of 8333 Brentnal Rd., Pasadena, said her foot became caught under the brake pedal forcing the accelerator down.

She was entering the restaurant's driveway at Rosemead and Foothill Blvds.

The car, a 1959 Lincoln, shot forward and smashed into the side of the building.

A small palm shrub was thrown through the restaurant window, spraying the Cress family with broken glass. Cress' father, E. J. Cress of La Habra, was knocked from his seat by the impact.

NEXT to the table, the wall was pushed in near the office of hostess Irene Hadley.

"The crash sounded like every waitress in the place had dropped her tray at the same time," she explained.

Taken to St. Luke Hospital were Mrs. Smith, with a possible fractured leg; Mrs. Mabel Conklin, 60, of 1115 Holly Ave., Arcadia, also with a possible fractured leg, and Mrs. Earl Rimas, 50, with possible head injuries and a fractured leg. Mrs. Rimas was visiting the Conklin family from the East.

All were later transferred to the Huntington Memorial Hospital.

CHP Sgt. J. W. Taylor said the women were coming to the restaurant to meet their husbands for dinner.

The front end of the car was completely demolished with an estimated $1,000 damage.

Damage to the restaurant was undetermined, but officials said it would probably run over $1,500.

Also Grants License To Bethany Home

A new committee was appointed by the City Council last week to make another attempt at solving the cemetery problem here.

The committee, named by Mayor Webster Vannier, will try to untangle the legal complications and establish a method by which the cemetery can be properly maintained.

The old group, appointed about a year ago to investigate the problem, met only once, at the most, and consequently was dissolved.

Members of the new committee are Mrs. Janet Wood, William Schwartz, Harry Lange, Paul Carter and Herbert Harrison.

THE CITY COUNCIL also granted a business license to Bethany Home for Girls, after a lengthy discussion with the home's attorney, G. Norman Kennedy. The following conditions were attached to the license:

1. The premises (72 W. Alegria) may be used as a home for girls between the ages of 16 and 20 who are neglected and dependent, but not delinquent.
2. Should there be any occupancy by delinquent girls or by other than "average, normal and healthy" girls who are neglected and dependent, the license may be revoked.
3. At such time as four or more girls are housed in the home, or in any event on or after Jan. 1, 1961, the license shall be made to comply with the provisions of Ordinance 640. (Ordinance 640

Hiestand Attacks Cutback of B-70

Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand (21st District Republican) yesterday criticized the recent Defense Department cutback of the B-70 program to a mere single prototype mock-up.

"Penny-wise and pound-foolish would seem to characterize the decision," said Rep. Hiestand. "Here we have the greatest step forward in the history of aviation and even to national defense, and it is temporarily shelved in favor of continuing some of our conventional and perhaps outmoded defense weapons and methods."

"The B-70 is not just an airplane," said Gen. Thomas P. White some weeks back. "It's a national aeronautical development. It's a breakthrough into a new era of flying."

REP. Hiestand told a meeting of the Northridge Rotary Club that he had been convinced after a study of the tremendous importance of the program, that he was formally asking a reconsideration of this Defense Department decision. He also declared his intention of appearing before the Armed Services Committee of the House in behalf of the B-70 program.

"I've seen the new B-70, that is, the mock-up, the life-sized model, and have been briefed, at my own request, on its stupendous potential. It's a tremendous advance. It's a big six-jet flying triangle, which can cruise at over 2,000 miles per hour and attain altitudes of over 70,000 feet. It could carry a large number of air to air missiles for air defense or 'hound dog' with a devastating hydrogen payload.

"It can substantially help in space exploration by launching satellites from great heights, thus saving the need for and weight of that tremendous first stage thrust, which is so large and costly and in which apparently the Soviets are still ahead of us."

"BUT MORE than all else, it can keep the Kremlin on the defensive for the years up until possibly 1975. They have been kept there by the great B-52 and probably will be for three to five years, but what then? As I see it only the B-70 is the answer at that time."

Aloha and Farewell

More than four years ago, I wrote of Sierra Madre as a stranger to the town. Everything then seemed marvelous to me, from our mountains to our overflowing cesspools.

And now, as I'm about to leave, my attitude has not changed significantly, although I hope some of my earlier naivete has been rubbed off. And so, dear reader (as they say in the travelogues), I must leave your fair city, not sadder but, I trust, a little wiser.

Several facts of business life, as it applies to a weekly newspaper, have been pounded into me since I've been here. The learning came hard, but it should stick or else I'm a bigger fool than even I think possible.

YOU CAN SAY almost anything you want to, I've learned, and get away with it, providing your arguments are reasonable and not completely opposed to the prevailing sentiment in the community.

It's hardly possible, for example, to espouse anarchy or nudity (although stupidity is fine) and make a living, but it is entirely feasible to lambast the GOP, including the patron saint of our storm drains, Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand, Republican from the 21st District of which Sierra Madre is a part.

This indicates to me that people are in general willing to let you say your piece or "give the Devil his due," so to speak, providing you don't threaten their pocketbooks, the mortgage on their new ranch-style home, mother or the bairns gathered about the hearth.

I don't think we've lost more than two subscribers because of an opinion expressed in the Sierra Madre News, although we have, I believe, gained a few dozen more readers. Thus outspoken editorials, a reasonably good editorial page plus all the local chit-chat that can be crammed into the paper make for better subscription lists and more loyal readers.

ON THE OTHER hand, I've learned that the quality of a weekly newspaper (possibly a daily, too) has nothing to do with the amount of money the business makes. In fact, the reverse may be true.

Those who pay the least attention to the contents are the very persons from whom we derive the great bulk of our income—the advertisers. And they, God bless them, are so busy in the effort required to withstand the economic squeeze that they have little time to read anything, let alone a small weekly.

Many advertisers, I'm afraid, believe a newspaper is nothing more than a conveyance in which to circulate exaggerated tales about the products they sell. Whether the paper is actually read doesn't seem to bother them much, providing every house gets at least one copy with their ad in it, preferably on Page One. (There are, of course, some notable exceptions in Sierra Madre.)

This explains the rise of the shopper, that horrid mish-mash of ads and editorial puffs which clutter up the lawns hereabouts. Someone should take a poll to discover how many people really do more with a shopper than throw it in a garbage can.

NEVERTHELESS, how people dispose of their shoppers is beside the point. It's the opinions of the advertisers that count, and many of them think shoppers are just great. Our home town may lose its identity, our democracy may topple, but the advertising throw-away will march on.

The moral is: Don't publish a newspaper; grind out a shopper. You'll get rich quicker.

This opinion may sound harsh and cruel, but it is not intended to be. The small entrepreneur these days is subject to enormous economic pressures. He doesn't know how to cope with them and, indeed, possibly there is no way out. He is becoming an anachronism.

To compound the tragedy, the little guy is caught in his own trap. He is so harassed by business competition that he has no time to read, to study, to discover the reasons for his plight. He can do little more than long for the "good old days," the gas-light era which in retrospect looks glorious but which will certainly never return.

ALL OF WHICH should be enough sermonizing for today and in Sierra Madre, at least, for all time, so far as I'm involved.

I'm leaving the Sierra Madre News with great reluctance. My farewell message may sound flippant and cynical, but my silly affection for rhetoric betrays me.

To tell the truth, I feel sad, a feeling for which I cannot find words.—H.W.E.

Next Act, the 'Weight Lifter'

Lee Shippey Says :

What Do You Think?

Down here in San Diego County an average of 250 persons a month lost their driving licenses because of reckless driving or driving while under the influence of alcohol.

I haven't seen figures of Los Angeles County but imagine it must revoke five or six times that many licenses if the law is equally well enforced. Every one of those license-losers has to pay higher car insurance when his license is restored. Other day an insurance agent told me he had had to charge a $19-year-old boy nearly $400 to insure his sports car because the young man was so proud of the speed his car would make that he didn't think what it might mean to Dad.

This being a time for good resolves, and most of our young people being good at heart, though thoughtless, how about suggesting this to him: "Even if you don't care if you get crippled for life or lose your life, think what your car accidents mean to poor old Dad."

SOME PEOPLE seem to think they should get such a hangover New Year's eve that they will be eager to take good resolutions next morning. But such resolutions rarely last as long as the hangover does.

NOT ALL highwaymen use pistols. Drug manufacturers who charge profits of 1,000 per cent or more practically point bottles of pills at their helpless victims and say: "Your money or your life."

THE ABORIGINAL natives of New Guinea have appealed to their government not to allow any new kinds of missionaries to enter their island. The reason is that they are confused because there are so many different kinds of Christianity, each asserting or at least inferring that its way is the only true way and all others are wrong. They cannot understand why so many widely diverging paths can be fervently pointed out to them as the one right way to Heaven.

They are happy, they say, with the missionaries they already have. They can accept the teachings of any of them by ones or twos but they are not yet up to fractions and compound fractions.

This makes us smile. But how far ahead of the New Guineans are we? How many of us are there who will vote for or against a man, not because of his character or abilities but because of his religion or race or color? Take a good look inside your own heart, dear reader. Maybe you, too, are a New Guinean.

The sacred tenets on which our country was founded were freedom to worship God in our own way, freedom to choose our rulers and freedom to equal and unprejudiced opportunity. We'll never live up to those tenets until we rise above prejudices at the ballot box.

Demos Wonder About Role of Kefauver

By Robert G. Spivack
Washington.

POST-SCRIPT TO THE EISENHOWER TOUR—The reports coming back to Washington indicate that President Eisenhower's tour has been a great success, not because he has negotiated any settlements, but simply because Asians have seen a different "face" of America.

The Indian government is reported particularly pleased by what the President had to say and by the fact that he appeared at a moment when the Red Chinese seem almost intent on destroying the one great democracy in Asia. Nehru and Eisenhower have hit it off better than anyone expected. The President is said to have an almost reverent attitude towards the Indian leader, as if he were a modern saint, or in the tradition of Gandhi. And Nehru reciprocates these feelings.

It's pleasant to know that somewhere in the world at this holiday season there is some measure of good cheer—and something to cheer about. Relations between India and America have never been better. Irony isn't it, what changes there have been in foreign relations since the passing of John Foster Dulles?

PRESIDENTIAL POLITICS

The one question that keeps popping up here with increasing frequency is what role Sen. Estes Kefauver will play at the Los Angeles Democratic convention. Here again is a nice piece of irony. Those very politicians who committed everything short of mayhem to keep the Tennessee senator off the ticket in 1952 and 1956 now can't do enough for him these days.

That's true of Lyndon Johnson, Hubert Humphrey and Stuart Symington. Sen. John Kennedy may be a bit aloof, but the others are snuggling up to old Estes as if he were a long lost brother.

It is not that they think he is going to run for President again, although anything might happen between now and next July. It is simply recognition that Kefauver will probably know more of the delegates to next year's convention than any of the men now in the race. A good word from him might work miracles. And he might also exercise an important veto power simply by frowning at one of the aspirants.

SEN. KENNEDY'S CAMPAIGN—Sen. John F. Kennedy, the intelligent and personable Massachusetts Democrat, finds himself in political difficulties as the year comes to an end. Maybe it was the birth control issue, or maybe it's that he looks so young, but it has been apparent for some time that his campaign has been slowing down. He is still far out front, however, among the Democratic possibilities and no one yet seems close to overtaking him.

A recent Gallup Poll showed how Kennedy might run against Rockefeller. Last July it was Kennedy—63%, Rockefeller—37%; September it was Kennedy—57%, Rockefeller—43%; in November it was Kennedy—55%, Rockefeller—45%. Apparently the gap is narrowing.

None of this is too unusual for the front-runner. It almost always happens in the case where a candidate gets

WHAT IS surprising, though, are reports that something close to panic seems to be gripping some of Kennedy's friends. They are starting to act as if their candidate is being "persecuted" because of his religion. It is not hard to understand how they feel, because there are many signs that anti-Catholic bigotry has not died down in this country as much as some people have hoped.

The most disturbing story I have seen comes from Earl Mazo of The New York Herald Tribune, who has excellent sources of information inside the Kennedy camp. Mazo reports that Kennedy cautioned Democratic leaders that if he is denied the presidential nomination because he is a Roman Catholic, it could seriously damage the party.

That, of course, sounds close to being a threat. I assume it is correctly reported since I have heard similar comments from others in the Kennedy organization.

It's hard to know how much weight to give the religious "issue." But it should be noted that major opposition to Kennedy is coming from powerful Catholic Democratic leaders: Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Gov. Mike DeSalle of Ohio and maybe Gov. Pat Brown of California, who apparently has ambitions of his own.

In a month or two Kennedy may find he is out of the race, or he may get his second wind and be in a stronger position than ever. The first thing he has to learn, though, is to keep calm when the political weather gets stormy.

On the Trails . . .

Goat Herders, Killers Roamed Hills

By Bill Wark

Many a distinguished person was closely associated with our mountains. The names of the peaks verify it. Our warm hills sheltered equally many a different person, because of their rather odd ways turned from society and became dwellers in the canyons.

Perhaps the strangest resident of Millard Canyon was Hyriel G. Gill who entered the canyon with 40 goats and settled in a rough board shack which she built with her own hands in 1909. Unlike the 1,000 goats of Warren Gale which were hired to keep the firebreaks clean, Mrs. Gill's goats roamed the mountains at will, from the Arroyo Seco to the Mt. Lowe railway, cleaning off the mountains, rolling stones and starting landslides until the trails were unsafe except for the sure footed goats.

FOR MANY years Mrs. Gill defied the government to put her off the land. Everything but a company of troops was tried. The case was heard in the Land Office at Los Angeles, and decided in favor of the United States and Mrs. Gill was ordered to vacate. But she did nothing of the kind and her goats still wandered the hilly glades at will.

She sassed the United States district attorney and the secretary of the interior at Washington; she told everyone from the local fire guard to the President where to go. It looked like Mrs. Gill and her flock was a fixture unless violence was done to both.

Finally in 1920 an order was issued by the United States District Court that she and her goats vacate the property within five days. At the end of that time, a forestry crew set what equipment was left out among the boulders and tore down the cabin. Mrs. Gill vanished from our mountain scene.

A DWELLER of the early days in the Big Tujunga was Silas Hoyt, a rare old mountain man with peculiar ideas of business. Hoyt first entered the Big Tujunga in 1888 and settled on a quarter section near the junction of Vasquez Canyon. His only companion was a big gray horse named Beelzebub (prince of the devils) which he used in work about the ranch and to haul his old wagon to town, which was very seldom as Hoyt strongly disliked the city and the development of the valley area.

From stones and logs of he canyon he built the crudest sort of a cabin, and one of Beelzebub's chief tasks was drawing in whole tree trunks for the fireplace. They were never cut to length, but rolled and pulled in through the open door as they burned off in the fire.

Many a tale was told of the large chain with which he fastened Beelzebub to a tree at nightfall, and of the wild chase to capture him should he managed to get loose, as he always did when fastened with a rope.

The combined irritation of wood smoke and heavy eye-browns, which not only curled into his eyes but grew so long they hung to his cheeks below, almost cost the old man his sight. He was saved from possible total blindness when a kindly Dr. Hansen discovered his plight and trimmed the shaggy brows and gave him a wash for their care.

IN 1900 two Los Angeles men, Lon Chapin and Earl Osborne, became interested in the Hoyt Ranch as a location for a weekend mountain home. They made a bargain with the old man to fix up the road, care for the place and to keep him supplied with what little he needed in exchange for the use of a part of his property as a building site.

Evenings came gently to the Big Tujunga and to Silas Hoyt until in 1925 when he became so feeble he was taken from the Canyon and died in the city at the age of 97.

A VILLAIN of our mountains was John Knox who settled in the East Fork of the San Gabriel during the gold booming days of 1895. Knox always carried a gun with many notches.

He wanted to be known as a killer and boasted of being run out of Virginia for killing a man. He claimed he had killed two more in Texas, one in Arizona and before moving to the Canyon had killed a man in Inglewood.

On Christmas night in 1917 at Trogen's Camp on the Iron Fork he shot and killed one of the Miller brothers who was mining at the Narrows. Soon after this a skeleton was found covered with logs and brush in Coldwater Canyon. This was blamed on Knox but never proven. His career was suddenly ended June 13, 1920, when he was killed in a gun battle with Ranger Charlie Nevatney who had gone to question him about threatening letters sent to two women residents of the Canyon, Mrs. Blanch Cole and her daughter, Marjorie.

Each New Law Eats Into Freedom

By Edgar W. Hiestand
Rep. 21st Dist. Calif.

As much as Thanksgiving, maybe more so, Christmas is a time when Americans count their blessings and thank God for our great free country. And we have so much, so very much, to be thankful for. There aren't more than half a dozen nations in the world that enjoy the spiritual freedoms and physical comforts thought to be essential to human happiness to anywhere near the extent that we have them.

Why should the good Lord favor these few and the United States more than any? We cannot answer that but we do know this: What the Lord has given, it is our responsibility to maintain.

WE HAVE the essential freedoms and the material comforts in abundance, and more to share with the rest of the world. But with all this bounty comes inherent dangers rooted in human nature.

Americans are traditionally generous and sensitive to the needs of others. But kind hearted and well meaning citizens have misapplied the freedom, seeing in our vast national wealth a means of equating the material possessions of all Americans. Here lies great danger. This conscious or unconscious urge to satisfy the needs and desires of millions of people at the expense of other millions, has resulted in constant expansion of our government in the area of public welfare.

Yet all of us know that so long as there is freedom, there will be differences in individuals, in their status on the economic and social scale. For example, in the very crucial matter of making a living, who will deny that there will always be a few loafers or fools who will not achieve the level of productivity considered "average"? Can we seriously expect to pass laws that will eradicate the human traits that cause such inequalities? Is it possible to purchase the salvation of such individuals with the tax money of more prudent citizens?

NO INTELLIGENT person can answer those questions except in the negative. But the "do-gooders" keep trying and the tax load keeps increasing and with it come new rules and regulations. And with every new regulatory law, a little bit of our freedom is lost.

Our government can offer opportunity, but not the substance, for individual happiness.

EUROPEAN

AMERICAN NATURAL

IVY LEAGUE

BON VIVANT

The newest suits by The House of Worsteds strike a big blow against the "sameness" of men's fashions for these suits are designed to highlight the differences in taste and figure of various types of men. The man who likes to be first with a new style will welcome the suit with the European styling, at top left, with its short, er, more fitted cutaway jacket and squarer shoulders. For the man who likes his new ideas in small doses, the American natural curve of the jacket front, above right, gives a touch of newness. The man who is young in fact or fancy still finds the traditional Ivy League styling, bottom left, distinctive and flattering. The natural shoulders, straight sack coat, and slim trousers give him a look all his own. And the man with an expansive, extroverted style sense will lean to the new "bon vivant" suit styling, bottom right, with its broad-shouldered, narrow-hipped look. By Worsteds-text.

Vaccine Offers Good Protection Against Influenza

By Roy O. Gilbert, M.D.
L.A. County Health Officer

Although relatively few cases of influenza have appeared in California so far this year, this is nevertheless the season when the incidence of influenza and influenza-like diseases tends to increase. In the natural order of things, deaths from both pneumonia and influenza reach the year's high point during December, January and February.

The spread of influenza, whether from one country to another or to different sections within a country, is under constant surveillance by public health officials. Whenever needed, pharmaceutical companies will have a sufficient supply of prophylactic vaccine on hand to curb the sweep of the disease.

WITH THE exception of an epidemic in Chile during August and September, there seems to have been no widespread dissemination of the disease anywhere in the world in recent months. Absenteeism resulting from respiratory infections in industry and schools in Los Angeles County appears to be normal for this time of the year.

However, there are certain groups of people who are advised to seek medical advice as to their need for the influenza vaccine. In general, these susceptible groups include individuals with heart or respiratory diseases, persons over 65 with a debilitating chronic illness of any type, and pregnant women as well.

Others who are advised to seek the advice of a physician concerning immunization are those persons responsible for essential community services such as law enforcement, fire protection, transportation and communication, and persons responsible for the care of the sick.

ONE CHARACTERISTIC of influenza is the abruptness with which it occurs. The infected individual suddenly experiences headache, muscle pains in the back and limbs, sweating, chills and weakness. Temperature is elevated and the fever may last anywhere from one to six days. Generally, however, in uncomplicated cases the patient recovers in from 48 to 72 hours.

The hazard of the disease is in the complications, especially pneumonia, that may occur. Young infants and persons weakened by age or some other disease are the most frequent victims.

CONSEQUENTLY, even during a year such as this when the disease seems to be of low prevalence, administration of polyvalent vaccine is advisable in certain cases to reduce the risk of infection. This vaccine offers protection against all the important strains of the disease, including the Asian type so widespread a couple of years ago.

A pamphlet giving additional information on influenza will be mailed to anyone who sends a card of request to the Division of Health Education, Los Angeles County Health Department, 241 N. Figueroa St., Los Angeles 12.

Scout Troops Join Forces For Caroling

Girl Scouts of Troop 323 and Boy Scouts of Troop 383 of Don Benito joined for an evening of caroling in the Ranch.
The caroling was followed by a Christmas party for the whole group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Carley, 1069 Hastings Ranch.
Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by approximately 50 scouts. Also present were Troop 323 leaders, Mrs. Victor Harris and Mrs. Walter Burke, and Troop 383 scoutmaster, George White.

VILLA VIEWS

By Toni Maurin
Sycamore 7-9634

We've made the grade again somehow and everything so laboriously wrapped and hidden away is now out on the repair shelf waiting to be put back together again.

I'm in a complete heap, but by golly I'm not about to admit it to a soul. I'll put on my face with a little putty under the eyes (five lost two pounds underneath my eyes) and meet the new year with a brave smile and all sorts of vows about a new and better way of life for 1960.

I've made the same resolutions for years and one day they'll stick. Maybe this will be the year. Happy New Year to all who chance to take the time to read these words, and I'll see you at the parade.

HOLIDAY parties continue to prevail through the season. Carol Siebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Siebert, Mesita Road, returned home from Stanford for vacation. She had a dinner recently for some of her old friends, which incidentally gave representation to six colleges. Her guests were Nancy Grizzle, Barbara Dornberger, Mary Dean Bower, Barbie Bolis, Margot Hayes, Maryanne Taft, Charlotte Stump, Jean Farrand, Sara Carlton, Carol Sullivan, Judy Bennion, Josie Hicks, Kathryn Griffith and Lila Haval.

THE WILLIAM Kelleys of Mesa Loa Lane slipped away with their son, Mike, to join Mr. and Mrs. Sam Worthington and their three children for an outing in Palm Springs.

REV. AND MRS. A. R. Gesswein of Sierra Madre Villa entertained 14 of their family and friends on the eve of Christmas for a real Smorgasbord dinner.

MR. AND MRS. Ira Lackey of Old House Road have houseguests for the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Roche and their two children, Deborah Ann and Rickie, came down to visit them from Fort Ord, Calif. Mrs. Roche is Mrs. Lackey's sister.

MR. AND MRS. William Morse of Mesa Loa Lane entertained 32 guests from the Pasadena Corp. at a post-Christmas open house party.

THE WALTER DORNS of Sierra Madre Villa had a full house and happy reunion for Christmas. They had as houseguests Mrs. Dorn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orr from Stockton and her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kerns, with their three children from Klamath Falls.

THE GUESTS for Christmas dinner at the A. C. Ong home on Trevan Road were Mrs. C. R. Finney, Miss Eugenia Ong and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Scott.

MR. AND MRS. Mel Knoll of Villa Heights Road have been having a full week. On Christmas day they had a family dinner which included Mr. and Mrs. Y. L. Creed, of Capistrano Beach, Mrs. Mary Knoll and Mr. George Knoll.

On New Year's day they are planning to see the parade for the first time after which they will be joined in their home by Mr. and Mrs. William Hofer and Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Williams for the balance of the day and dinner.

MR. AND MRS. J. William LeBaron of Sierra Madre Villa came up with a unique idea for a party the other evening. After having dinner out, the guests all returned to their home to make home costume movies with scripts strictly off the cuff. Mrs. LeBaron had gathered a wild assortment of costumes to misfit the occasion. At the next party they will have a private preview of their handiwork.

Their guests included Messrs. and Mesdames Owen Parry, William Weigel, Irving Garrison, Gordon Turner and Ralph Hornbeck.

MR. AND MRS. George Clark of Old House Road had a post-Christmas open house for around 60 guests on Saturday.

Dance Club Sets Feb. 20 For Dinner

The steering committee of the Hastings Ranch Dance Club is announcing the date for the club's anniversary dinner dance—Feb. 20 at Eaton's.

The club's first monthly party was a Valentine dance five years ago, and since then the February affair is always a special occasion. Although the 1960 party will come after Valentine's Day, the Valentine theme will be used.

The steering committee of the club is in charge of arrangements, this event being the last of its duties for the year. A new committee will be announced Feb. 20 at the dance. Members of the present committee are Mr. and Mrs. Russ Pooler, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Partch, Mr. and Mrs. Vince Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bickler.

The January affair will be an informal one, with a Saddle Hawking theme to be employed, since 1960 is a leap year. The party will be Jan. 9 at the VFW Hall in Sierra Madre. Dog Patch costumes will be in order.

Host couples for the party, which will start with cocktails and then a buffet dinner, will be Mr. and Mrs. Russ Vaniman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Steffens, Mr. and Mrs. Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Partch.

UP ON . . .

Hastings Hill

New blue lines are painted along the Rose Parade route, and just seeing them makes a Pasadena feel a little proud knowing that a million or so people from everywhere will be standing behind them watching the pageantry on Friday.

It's kind of a shame that people can't sit on the curb and watch the parade, and still everybody is able to see without getting into the pushing and shoving and dirty looks that accompany large crowds.

Those people who buy themselves a seat in the bleachers and watch in comparative comfort, probably have the right idea, but not the right spirit. The spirit of the Rose Parade is being able to carry to the parade route the tallest contraption that you and your family can set up and stand on to get a good view.

About three years ago, kitchen chairs were fine. The step ladders were employed. Last year it was step ladders on kitchen chairs. Don't tell anyone but we're planning to take our child's new jungle gym down there and charge 50 cents a rung for those who want a bird's eye view of the proceedings.

NEXT TO living in two houses are Eleanor and Harry Masser and sons, Kevin and Todd. Although still in their Canfield Road home, momentarily they will desert Hastings Ranch for their new home on Club Road over there by Annandale. They had some remodeling done in their new house, and the contractors kept changing their completion date, and the Massers had to keep changing their moving date, until they found themselves living in two neighborhoods, partying in both neighborhoods and generally in a state of flux. Another party is involved, too. The third little Masser is due pretty soon, and it's getting to be a toss-up whether he or she will have Club or Canfield Road for a first address.

JOE AND SUE Cummins, after a week in Chicago just before Christmas, arrived home in time to finish the shopping and celebrate with their family and Sue's mother, who is visiting. They plan their New Year's eve party at their Rim Road home.

DICK AND Shipley Walters and their children are having an extra special holiday season this year. Shipley's parents, the Richard S. Newlins of New York City, were with them for the festive time. A few of the Walters' friends dropped in for egg-nogs last Saturday night to meet the visitors.

HAZEL AND Jim Gittinger will be welcoming her parents, the Lester Crawford of Illinois, sometime this week. The Crawfords will be remaining in the Ranch for a couple of months.

ETHEL ASHER "wowed" her guests the other day at a holiday luncheon by serving champagne from a fountain. How much bridge was played is still a mystery since it's a whole lot easier to slip a glass under a spout than to lift a bottle. Speaking of Ethel, she has certainly set a high standard, and by mistake she claims, for her fellow sisters in the Friday morning bowling tournament at Pasadena Bowling Lanes. The other morning she bowled 195, with five strikes in a row.

PAT AND Bill Dixon, owners of Pasadena Bowling Lanes, entertained the Friday morningers at a Christmas luncheon and judging from reports, it was a huge success.

THE ELEMENTS certainly did all they could to ruin the outdoor holiday displays. Far be it for me to suggest that we didn't need the rain, BUT it does seem as though the heavens could have waited another week to "open up." We in the neighborhood were very pleased and excited to find that Art and Danny Gabriel had received a prize for this display. Both of them have worked so hard not only to make the inside and outside of their home attractive but have sparked the neighborhood to do something about decorations. I would hate to hazard a guess as to how many hours they have spent doing for and helping others with their displays.

HAL AND Janie Leffingwell held a soiree of the first water in their new West Covina home. Those who attended were most enthusiastic in their reports of the party and the house.

THE CLUTTERBACKS had as their very special Christmas guests, her cousin, Ensign Gilbert Roller of Iowa, and his family. He is present entering the naval hospital at San Diego. Dr. Roller and Betty are nephew and niece of the late Dr. T. C. Hinkle, prominent Kansas physician and a well-known writer of children's books. Lucie and Marge.

Theta Alums To Have Luncheon

Pasadena Alumnae Chapter, Kappa Alpha Theta, is holding a "Drop-in" luncheon today honoring the active members and their mothers from the San Gabriel Valley.

The affair, from 12 to 2, will be held in the home of Mrs. Donald S. Alexander, 1395 Shenandoah, Rd., San Marino.

Assisting Mrs. Alexander are Mrs. R. B. Tavenner, food chairman, and her committee: Mesdames Thomas A. Batson, Ralph Bridges, James Hastings and LeRoss Hammond.

Flowers All Year—That's Luck of Californians

Winter in a California garden is only slightly less colorful than other seasons of the year. What with fall flowers that are reluctant to stop blooming and spring flowers that can't wait to start, the Californian is lucky. He is especially lucky to have so much winter bloom from shrubs. At a time when gardens across the nation are buried under snow, the Californian is cutting Camellias for table arrangements, potting up Azaleas for color indoors or breathing the fragrance of Daphne under his kitchen window. How the eastern gardener must envy us Californians.

IF YOU STOP in to chat with a member of the California Association of Nurserymen this month and next, you will come away with all sorts of ideas for winter color from shrubs. He'll impress you for sure with the importance of the berried shrubs in our state.

He'll tell you Pyracantha berries are prominent from late summer to well after the New Year. And he'll show you how, with proper planning, you can have Camellias in bloom from early fall to late spring.

This month and next, your eye will be caught by the charming sprays of Heather which nurserymen have to offer. We feel that every garden should have at least one shrub of heather, if only for the sentiment connected with this old favorite.

LEPTOSPERMUMS or Tea Trees provide us with color in winter and spring. Ask your nurseryman about the Keatley Leptospermum, a lovely pink-flowered member of the family. It blooms through the winter into early spring. Ask him, too, about the Delaware Osmanthus if you would have late winter masses of fragrant white flowers at your door-side.

We'd certainly not be without flowering Quinces which push out their delicate blooms so soon after the New Year; nor without the wonderful native Ceanothus—Wild Lilacs, if you prefer—which color up California's countryside in late winter and spring. These, among others, keep gardens bright in winter months.
